Brand Guidelines

Version 1.0 · October 2026

Fill in forms in a flash, safely.

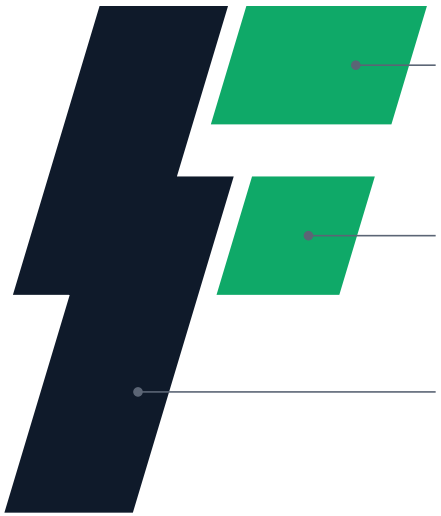
Formly is “Stripe for forms.” When someone reaches a form during signup or checkout, they click “Fill with Formly.” A secure page opens where they connect accounts like Google or OneDrive. Formly takes the business’s blank form, fills it in with the person’s information, and hands back a completed form, without the business ever touching the raw data.

The brand has to say two things at once: this is fast, and this is safe. Every element in this guide serves one of those two ideas.

Speed
No typing. One click from a blank form to a finished one.

Trust
Personal data stays in the person’s control, not the business’s.

Clarity
Plain words, sharp shapes, and calm color. Nothing ornamental.



Together the three parts read as a forward-leaning F.

The logo

The logo is the mark followed by the wordmark, set in Sora SemiBold. Use the primary version wherever possible, and the reversed version on Ink or other dark backgrounds.

Primary · on white or Paper

Reversed · on Ink or dark surfaces

Alignment rule: the mark runs from the top of the f and l to the bottom of the y. The gap between mark and wordmark is about a quarter of the type size.

Clear space, minimum size and icon

Keep a space of x around the logo, where x is the height of the top green bar. Nothing else (text, edges, other logos) goes inside it.

Minimum size

Logo: 96 px wide on screen, 25 mm in print

Mark alone: 16 px on screen, 6 mm in print

App icon

Ink square, 23% corner radius. White bolt, Volt bars.

Don’t change the mark

Don’t make the bolt green

Don’t stretch or squash

Don’t round the corners

Don’t rotate it

Don’t rearrange the parts

Don’t use low-contrast backgrounds

Color

Ink carries the brand. Green is the accent: Fern on light backgrounds, Volt on dark ones. Use green sparingly, for the mark's bars and moments of completion.
